Welcome to our November update

Site Progress

- The Adam Smith Business School piling works have now completed. The works to the concrete cores are progressing, and these will be visible above the hoarding. The ground floor slab works are also progressing.
- You will see the Tower Cranes working serving the concrete operations at both the upper and lower levels of the project.
- Envelope works are ongoing to the Clarice Pears Institute of Health and Wellbeing building, including façade, roof light installation, and other roof works.
- The internal fit out works are still well underway, with the partitions, MEP services, taping and filling, and stair balustrades continuing to progress, in addition to the raised access floor “spotting”.
- The works in-forming the complex atrium, installing bulkheads, steelwork and glazed partition screens are progressing well .
